The customs and traditions here written were first established during the era of Their Excellencies, Omatsu Yoshiaki (aka.Senkyu) and Mary of Dumfries, the first Baron Palatine and the first Baroness Palatine of Allyshia. They were based upon the codex created during the reigns of their predecessors and the customs and traditions of the Barony of the Far West.

Being a compendium of the customs and traditions of the current middle ages as they are practiced in Their Occidental Majesties' Palatine Barony of Allyshia, these customs and traditions establish the foundation upon which the SCA has been built in Allyshia. They support all our efforts to re-create the middle ages as they should have been; an era filled with grace, honor, nobility, and courage; devoid of the baseness which haunts mankind's existence. These customs and traditions also serve as a binding force to unite the branches of Allyshia through a commonality of practice and belief.

Section C.

Section C.

The Baronial Coronet Tournament shall consist of three (3) parts: 1. Heavy Fighting Competition, 2. Arts Competition, 3. Sciences Competition. In addition to serving as the

In the event that there are more than six competitors, the list shall be conducted as a standard double elimination tournament. Any ties are to be re-fought to a clear victory for each place. At the Coronet's discretion, the tournament style may be changed, as long as it conforms to Kingdom and Society heavy combat standards and has clearly defined victors. The fighters with the most victories will be awarded first place (3 points), second place (2 points), third place (1 point), etc. respectively. If a competitor and his/her consort choose to forfeit the Heavy Fighting portion of the tournament they will receive zero (0) points in that competition.

1b. The Coronet is at liberty to determine acceptable heavy weapons forms to be used in the list, or forms may be determined by lottery.

1c. Traditionally, the heavy fighting competition is held as a drawn weapons tournament, with an offensive weapon and offhand weapon or device being drawn from hats by each competitor's consort. The primary hand should consist solely of offensive weapons, and the offhand selections should include weapons, shields, legal blocking devices, and smiles or empty hand.

1d. If the Heavy Fighting Competition form is standard SCA heavy weapons, the Coronet may apply such specifics as they wish, provided these do not violate the governing documents of the Society for Creative Anachronism, Inc., the laws of the West Kingdom, or this document.

1e. All bye fights of the tournament are to be fought by the Coronet, their representative, or previous councilors of Allyshia.

2. The Arts Competition is to chronicle the reign of the current Baron and Baroness and is judged in three (3) categories: (1) entertainment, (2) period style, and (3) accuracy, with a range of zero to four (0-4) points given in each category. The chronicle must be completed on the day of the competition, from memory, during the competition time frame. Time limit for this competition shall be one hour. The judging shall be "blind" 11 (i.e., the author not identified to the judges). After each category is given a score, the judges will add the scores together and give the competitor/consort with the highest overall score first place (3 points), second place (2 points), third place (1 point), etc. If a competitor and his/her consort choose to forfeit the Art Competition portion of the tournament they will receive zero (0) points in that competition.

2a. The rubric used for scoring the Arts Competition shall be made publically available to the populace.

3. For the Sciences Competition, each competitor shall draw, from memory, during the competition time frame, a map of the Known World or the Kingdom of the West, as determined by the Coronet and announced the day of the competition. The time limit for this competition shall be one hour. Judging will be on geographical accuracy of the map and how correctly each location is identified. No entry shall be considered that does not qualify as a good cartographic representation of the defined area as determined by the judges.

3a. If the competition is for a map of the Known World, points shall be awarded based on overall geographical accuracy and correctly identified locations, with 0-10 points possible for the Kingdom of the West, 0-7 points possible for each Kingdom that shares a land border with the Kingdom of the West, and 0-5 points possible for each remaining Kingdom. One point shall be given for each correctly located and identified location within each Kingdom, up to the maximum possible point total. In the event of a tie, correctly drawn and identified locations beyond the maximum point totals may be considered. If a tie persists, historical endeavor and period style may be considered.

3b. If the competition is for a map of the Kingdom of the West, one (1) point shall be awarded for each correctly identified and geographically accurate location. No points shall be awarded for locations drawn or identified outside of the Kingdom of the West. In the event of a tie, historical endeavor and period style may be considered.

3c. Negative 5 points will be awarded to any map on which The Barony of Allyshia is incorrectly drawn, and negative 5 points will be awarded if the Barony of Allyshia is incorrectly identified.

3d. A map key shall be made publically available to all members of the populace for study.

3e. The judging shall be "blind" (i.e., the competitor not identified to the judges). After each map is given a point total, the judges shall award the competitor/consort with the highest overall score first place (3 points), second place (2 points), third place (1 point), etc. If a competitor and his/her consort choose to forfeit the Science Competition portion of the tournament they will receive zero (0) points in that competition.

Section D.

1. The entries shall be judged by the Coronet, those who have worn the Coronet, the Baronial Seneschal, and any other qualified gentles the Coronet should choose to invite. The scorekeeper tracking the entries and points is required to recuse his/herself from judging, discussing, and scoring entries and is present only to track the points and results and clarify the rules and judging criteria as put forth in this codex.

2. Each competitor and his/her consort will have their points from the three competitions totaled by the judges. The competitor with the most points shall be declared the victor and First Councilor and will receive the title of Palatine Baron/ess at Baronial Investiture. His/Her consort shall be declared First Councilor and will receive the title of Baron/ness at Baronial Investiture. The results of Baronial Coronet Tournament and individual competitions will be safeguarded and announced at the discretion of the Coronet.

2a. If a competitor and his/her consort have chosen to forfeit a competition they will receive 0 points in the competition.

3. In the event of a tie, the competitor and consort that have competed in the highest number of competitions shall be the victors. If this does not break the tie, the competitor and consort who placed highest in the most competitions shall be the victors. If this does not break the tie, the score from the Arts Competition shall be used as the tiebreaker.]

Section E.

In the event that a Baronial Coronet Tournament cannot be held, the Coronet will consult the Baronial Seneschal and the Crown of the West to determine the cause, and to decide if the Coronet should continue in extended rule or a vicarage should be created.

Section F.

The highest scoring chronicle and map shall be published with the consent of the creator in the local newsletter and on the Baronial Website. If the creator of the highest scoring chronicle or map does not consent to the publication of their work then the next highest scoring chronicle and map shall be published with the consent of the creator in the local newsletter and on the Baronial Website. And so on till, a map and chronicle is able to be published. If none of the competitors agreed to their chronicle submission being published, then it is the responsibility of the sitting Coronet to submit a chronicle of their reign to the local newsletter and on the Baronial Website for posterity. Their submission must be done before their step down at March Crown. Any Coronet that does not fulfill this requirement shall be banned from participating in the Lupercalia tournament until this requirement has been fulfilled.

Section G.

Each of the competitions of the tournament will also serve as a prize tournament. All competitors participating in the competition will be eligible for the prize competition regardless if they are eligible for the coronet tournament. All entries to the Arts Competition and Science Competition prize and coronet tournament will be judged blind and together by the councilors (see section C2 and C3). The competitor with the highest score in each competition will be the winner of the prize tournament even if they are also the winner of the coronet tournament.

Section H.

If there is any concern by the populace of the accuracy of the judging and calculation of the total scores, a request may be made to the Baronial and Kingdom Seneschals to review the scoring rubrics used by the councilors.
